ton, West Virginia. Gen. Grant will not visit Washington until his return from Cubs and M xico, whither he has gone to spend the winter, and keep out of the way of political issues that might arise.

It is stated that St. Louis merchants and capitalists will subscribe $1,000 009 to carry out a proposition to make Port Royal, S. C., a great expering and importing point for the West and South. Wm. H. Vanderbilt has sant to the Treasury Department to be registered five million of four per cent, bonds, which, it is understood, he has purchased with the proceeds of his late sale of New York Central stock. He already has five millions of four per cents registered as the Treasury. A young girl in Pittsburg, Pa., has been sent to jail at the instance of her uncle, obarged with lerceny, because she were a si'k dress and other articles belonging to her aunt to a ball on Thanksgiving evening, not supposing there would be any objection to her using them. Borrowed plumage is always dangerous. The Rev. J. J. McByar, of Pittsburg, has been sued for marrying April B. Walters to William Davis. Miss Walters, at the time of the marriage, was but little over fourteen years of age. The suit has been brought by the father to recover the penalty of fifty pounds, imposed by the colonial law of 1739. ustil next spring. CAUTIONS IN EATING .- 1. Of course, don't cat too much. The digestive fluids are limited in quantity. All shove enough is undigested. irritating and weakening the system, and often causing paralysis of the brain by drawing on the nervous force more rapidly than it is generated. 2. Don't est between meals. The stomach must rest, or it will sconer or later break down. Even the heart has to rost between the beats, 3. Don't eat a full meal when exhausted. The stemach is as weak as the rest of the tody. 4. Don't take a lucch at noon, and cat heartily at night. The whole digestive system needs to share in the rest and recuperation of sleep.

Besides, the tendency is to put a full meal into a weskened stomee's. 5. Don't substitute stimulus for food-like many women wto do half a day's work on strong coff so or ter. As well in the case of a horse, substitute the whip for oats.

6. Don't have a daily monotony of dishes. Variety is necessary for relish, and relish is necassary to good digestion. 7. Don't cat blindly, There can be nothing in the body-museles, membranes, bones, nerves, brain-which is not in our food. One article furnishes one or more elements, and an-

8. Eat according to the season-one third less in summer than in wirter. In the latter season, fat meat, sugar and starch are appropriate, as being heat makers; in the former, milk, vegetables, and every variety of ripe fruit. 9. Est with cheer. Cheer promotes digestion; care, fret, and passion arrest it. Lively chat, race necedotes, and innecest gossip are other others. We could starve on fine flour.

better than Helferd tauce. THE SAME OLD STORY .- An Oxford gaduate was showing his sister over his rooms in college, when some one knocked at the door. Supposing that it was one of his friends, and not wishing to be chaffed, he hid her behind the curtsins, and admitted an elderly gentleman who apolo-gized profusely for his intrusion, and excessed gized profusely for his intrusion, and excused himself by saying that it was many years since he had been at Oxford, and could not leave without paying a vicit to his dear old college and the old rooms he had occupied as a student.

"Ah!" cried the old gentleman, looking around, "the same old sofa! yes and the same old carpet—everything the same?"

Then walking into the hadroom he remarks

Then, walking into the bedroom, he remark. "Yes! and the same old bed! and the same washstand! Yes, everything the same." Presently he stepped towards the curtains, and remarked, "Ah! and the same old curtains!" Looking around he beheld the young lady, and, turning around, said, "Ah, you young dog, and the sane old game!" "But," hastily replied the undergreduste, "Yast young lady is my sister." To which the reply came. "Yes, I know, and the same old

A CHEAP ICE HOUSE. - In giving the followiog chesp plan for an ice house, the Fruit Record leaves one without excuse on the ground of (xpers): "It you have no house ready, draw one hundred er more blocks of ice; prok them close together in a solid block on the north side of a building where the drainage will be good. After the 100 is all packed together, build up around it a cheap board or rail fence, one foot away from the ice, packing the space between the sides and ice with straw; over the top throw a few inches of sawdust, and putting over all a cheep roof, leaving a good air hole in the top. Ice may be kept in this way until
